ATOURE MANAGEMENT & CONSULTING × MOTHER AFRICA FESTIVAL

Maximising Mother Africa visibility

A proposal for the 5th edition of Mother Africa Festival: talent access, creator management on the ground and one visibility report.

27 and 28 December 2026, Marcory Zone 4, Abidjan.

Prepared by Baba Touré, Director · 30.10.2026

Four editions in, this is already working

Four editions

The 4th edition ran at Marcory Zone 4 on 27 and 28 December 2025.

Davido for year five

Davido headlines the 5th edition, the festival's anniversary year.

Sponsors on board

Partner brands already back the festival, as the press launch showed.

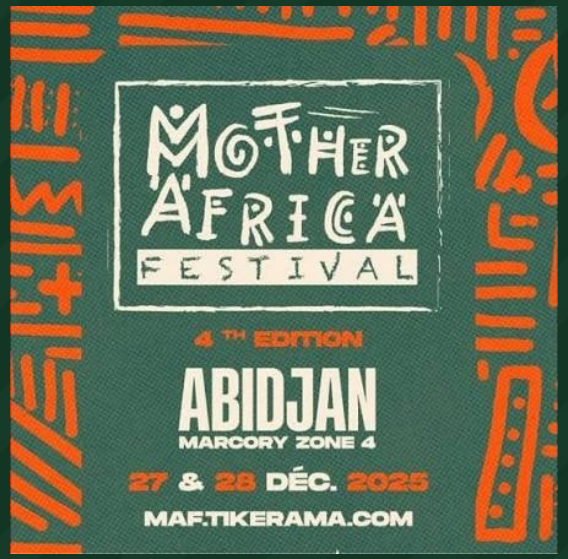

Tickets sold online

Sales run online through maf.tikerama.com, ready for tracked links.

WHAT THE 5TH EDITION NEEDS

- Creators chosen for the audiences the festival wants most
- Set deliverables and key messages for every creator
- A clear view of what each creator posts, and when
- Sponsor visibility the festival can prove, partner by partner
- Festival numbers: views, audiences, the diaspora, tickets

The 5th edition raises the stakes

2025 · 4th edition

2026 · 5th edition

Anniversary edition

Five years of Mother Africa: a milestone the city will want to talk about.

Davido headlines

A global name that pulls attention from across Africa and the diaspora.

27 and 28 December

Two nights at Marcory Zone 4, while the diaspora is home for the holidays.

THE REVENUE MODEL

Where the new money comes from

More creators → More visibility → Sponsor goals met → More sponsor money

Your audience is already filming

Every phone in the crowd is a camera.

That content already exists, but nobody directs it and nobody counts it. AToure makes sure the right creators are holding the phones, with a brief, a plan and a way to measure what they deliver.

> Creators produce visibility. AToure makes that visibility provable.

Choose the creators

Matched to the audiences the festival wants

Brief and time every post

Key messages, tags and the ticket link

Count what they deliver

One report the festival can show sponsors

Three layers, one operator

01

Talent access

- Creators matched to the audiences Mother Africa wants
- Music, fashion and lifestyle voices in Abidjan and the diaspora
- DJs and streamers for the headline sets
- VIP invitations organised for talent

02

Creator management

- Set deliverables agreed with every creator
- Briefs with key messages, tags and the ticket link
- Accreditation, scheduling and one point of contact
- On site on both nights, in the moments that matter

03

The visibility report

- A check at 48 hours, the full report on day 14
- Every post, every platform, in one document
- Audiences, diaspora reach and ticket links
- Sponsor value, partner by partner

Creators produce visibility. AToure makes it provable, so the festival can sell it to sponsors.

What creators make, before, during and after

BUILD UP

Reveal reactions

Creators react to the lineup and the Davido announcement as they drop.

BUILD UP

Ticket links

A tracked link to maf.tikerama.com for every creator, and a code where the festival supplies one.

BUILD UP

Festival looks

Get ready with me outfits and styling that tease the nights ahead.

FESTIVAL NIGHTS

Crowd POV and stories

Live stories from the floor during headline sets and key moments.

FESTIVAL NIGHTS

Behind the scenes

Backstage and production moments, where the artists and the team agree.

AFTERGLOW

Recap reels

Best of edits and “were you there?” posts that keep the story going.

ATOURE MANAGEMENT & CONSULTING × MOTHER AFRICA FESTIVAL

AToure runs every creator, end to end

1

Scout and vet

Creators matched to the festival and checked for real audiences.

2

Contract

Deliverables, timing and usage rights agreed in writing.

3

Brief

Key messages, hashtags, the ticket link and sponsor mentions.

4

Accredit

Passes, access zones and arrival times for both nights.

5

Check and post

Drafts checked against the brief, then posted to the calendar.

AFTER THE FESTIVAL

- Every creator checked against the brief within 48 hours
- Analytics collected by screen recording, not screenshots
- Anything missing, chased

- One point of contact for the festival team
- A shared tracker of every creator and every post
- Brand safety rules agreed with you before anyone posts

Visibility in three waves

23 NOV TO 26 DEC

Build up

Goal: awareness and ticket sales

- Creator lineup announced
- Davido countdown
- Weekly ticket pushes with tracked links
- A last call before Christmas

27 AND 28 DEC

Festival nights

Goal: live attention

- Arrivals and festival looks
- Crowd POV during headline sets
- Sponsor activations in shot
- A recap each night

29 DEC TO 10 JAN

Afterglow

Goal: keep the story alive

- Recap reels and best of edits
- Creator thank you posts
- Results shared with fans and partners
- A 2027 save the date, if planned

> Every wave sits in one content calendar, approved by the festival before anything goes live.

Visibility for every sponsor

Mother Africa Festival press event

Sponsors buy proven visibility. The report is how the festival proves it.

Written into every brief

Sponsor mentions agreed in advance, so partners appear naturally.

Branding in shot

Creators guided to every activation and stage banner on both nights.

A page per sponsor in the report

Posts, views, screen time and a media value, clearly labelled as estimated.

Content the partners can reuse

The festival and its sponsors can share the best pieces again.

What Mother Africa actually receives

What we measure	What it tells the festival	How we capture it
Views and reach	How far festival content travelled	Screen recorded analytics from every creator
Interactions	Whether people cared enough to react	Likes, comments, shares and saves, per post and per creator
Audiences	Who watched, and from where	Countries, Côte d'Ivoire and diaspora, age and gender
Tickets	Which creators drove ticket sales	Tracked links to maf.tikerama.com, and codes where supplied
Festival accounts	New followers for Mother Africa	Account growth through the build up and the nights
Conversation	How much people talk about the festival	Hashtag and mention tracking
Sponsor value	What each partner received	On screen moments, screen time, estimated media value

Every figure comes from creator analytics, tracked links or ticketing data. Anything modelled is labelled estimated.
